Lynchburg.—Committees at work here have secured 301 memberships in the Virginia Historic Highway Association, the local goal being 300 memberships. The goal will be reached after the vacation season, after giving many people, now out of town on their vacations, opportunity to subscribe upon their return home.

Covington.—Fred Smith, full-blooded Indian of the Oneida tribe of Wisconsin, was shot and instantly killed in the yard of his boarding-house, Mercer street, by a negro named Walter Spinner. The motive for shooting is unknown. Smith was shot in the back, the bullet emerging through his chest, just over the heart. Spinner was arrested by Sheriff Robert Dyche and Officer Campbell and lodged in jail.

Richmond.—It is no violation of the State prohibition law to make wine from fruits and berries grown on one's own property, according to an interpretation of the Layman prohibition act by Police Justice John L. Ingram. Justice Ingram made it clear that the wine must not be given away except in the home of the maker, and cannot be sold. In addition, it must be stored in the house, and not kept in an outhouse on the grounds.

* * *

Danville.—The proposed session of the Halifax county grand jury for the purpose of dealing with the case of Coleman Crews, negro, charged in an attack case was not held. James G. Easley, Commonwealth attorney, announced that he spent Sunday investigating the offense and found that the evidence did not warrant its classification as a felony. The evidence, he said, warranted only proceeding against Crews for an assault and the case is to be reopened before a magistrate. The complainant, Easley said, concurred in the action when the law had been explained.

* * *

Richmond.—If the Federal government expends $54,000 on the rifle range at Virginia Beach, as it is expected to do, the capacity of the camp will be doubled, it was reported at the office of Adjutant-General W. W. Sale. Prospects are reported bright for the expenditure, which is reported upon favorably in recommendations of a special surveying committee from the War College. An extension of the sewer, water and light lines, the erection of many new buildings and the construction of road and new target pits are among the proposed improvements.

Newport News.—Newport News soon will be linked with Isle of Wight and Surry counties with a double-end ferry, according to reports from Isle of Wight, where work on a landing on the westerly side of the James is said already to have been started. Isle of Wight people in Newport News stated that a force of thirty men already is at work at fishing point, located near the mouth of Chuckatuck Creek, and that a pier will be built out to deep water, this pier to be linked with the interior of the county by a good road to Isaac Church, located on the Slah highway.

Richmond.—The infection in the right hand and arm of M. D. Hart, secretary to the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, has been checked and the patient's condition is better. It was reported from St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The hospital authorities did not seem to think that there was any danger of Mr. Hart losing his hand or finger. The infection started from a pimple on the sportsman's "trigger finger" and spread to the hand and arm. Progress will be slow, the hospital authorities said, but improvement has been noted.

Williamsburg.—The William and Mary College library has received from Charles E. Crane, of Chicago, two large oil paintings by the Russian artist, Belozer, which formerly hung in the Russian National Art Gallery. The pictures, which are about eight feet long and five feet high, are regarded as admirable examples of realistic Russian art. One depicts the memorable scene bearing the scriptural title: "He that is without sin among you, let him cast the first stone." The second represents Christ before the high priest, and bears the title: "He is guilty of death." The paintings will be placed on exhibition in the reading room of the college library.

Newport News.—Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Green and a friend, of this city, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury when their car overturned on the concrete road beyond Toano, Va., according to those who saw the accident, turned completely around and somersaulted at the same time, landing in ditch by the roadside. Witnesses say that the road was being watered at that point and that clay had been piled on the concrete, forming a trap, which wrecked one or two more machines during the day. Mr. Green was on his way to Richmond. Those who saw the wreck say that his escape was a little short of miraculous. The machine, a large and handsome closed car, was badly smashed up.

* * *

Williamsburg.—James Farthing, a farmer living near Norge, James City county, is reported to have committed suicide at the home of his mother by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun. It is reported that death was instantaneous. Farthing had brought his family to the home of his mother for the day, according to reports, and late in the afternoon his wife, hearing a shot in a near-by orchard, ran out to find her husband dead. It is said that the man worked the trigger of the shotgun with his foot. Declining health, over a long period, is ascribed as the motive for the shooting. Farthing is survived by his wife, two children and a number of relatives.

Covington.—Miss Carrie Sorrell, 15, residing in the Ogden Building, this city, was instantly killed in an automobile wreck near Buena Vista, according to meager reports reaching this city. A man by the name of Agee, a representative of a Chicago picture house, who was in this city several days on business, invited the girl and her sister, Nellie, for a ride. The three left this city in a small car. At a point about three and one-half miles from Buena Vista, according to reports, Agee lost control of the car and ran into a ditch and overturned, killing the girl instantly. The car was badly damaged. Miss Nellie Sorrell escaped injury, but Agee sustained a severe cut in his leg.

Norfolk.—There were 367 persons arrested and 337 convicted for violating some section of the game, inland fish and dog laws of Virginia in the Second Congressional District during the past year, according to figures made public by J. P. M. Joyce, supervisor for the district. The total amount in fines was $1,555.50, upon of which was paid into the State treasury fund. The cost imposed upon those convicted amounted to $1,939.15. That amount was paid to the city, town or county in which the case was tried, with the exception of the fee paid the arresting officer. There are two congressional districts in the State, and the same data is done as well as this district, the State treasury fund would have received $15,556.50 from the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries during the year.

Winchester.—"Oh, sir, I didn't hit him in the highway; I hit him on the ship with the rock," was the answer given in court by Mrs. Anna Belle Price when asked by the judge whether she had, as charged, struck her neighbor, Walter Haymaker, "in the highway with a rock." After the laughter had subsided Mrs. Price was fined $5 and costs, and the case closed. A recent court decree prescribed and mapped out a right of way for Mrs. Price through and over the lands of Haymaker, near Macedonia. Haymaker claimed that after the decree had been entered Mrs. Price "rocked" him on the public highway. Mrs. Price's two brothers, Elder and H. D. Cornwell, were also arrested at Haymaker's instance, who charged they used threatening and abusive language toward him. Before the warrants could be served by an officer the brothers hastened here, entered pleas of guilty and were fined $5 each.

Winchester.—Harry S. Thaw, rich Pittsburgher, who recently purchased "Kentworth," the old Colonial estate of the Stephenson family, near here, is a voluntary fireman, in addition to being a Virginia fruit grower and farmer. The Slimmest House

New York City's slimmest house is the building at the corner of Monroe avenue and 161st street in the Bronx. It is no wider than a room constructed sandes. The lot is only 2 feet 9 inches wide and 92 feet deep, but the owner has built a two-story house on it.
